Person

Edward 2 (Male)

(e vii - l x) the Elder, king of the Anglo-Saxons, 899-924

Notes

Edward had at least three consorts, the first of whom, Ecgwynn fl. c.893-900, mother of Æthelstan 18, is only mentioned in post-Conquest sources. See Sean Miller, 'Edward [Edward the Elder] (870s?-924)', Oxford Dictionary of National Biography, Oxford.

⊖ Dreaming/seeing vision/revelation (1)

View Event Once, while hiding from the Danes in the Glastonbury marsh, Alfred 8 sent out his household, except for his wife [Ealhswith 1] and one servant [Anonymous 10134], fishing. When a stranger appeared, Alfred 8 shared with him the last loaf of bread and some wine. When the stranger disappeared, the loaf was found whole and intact. The household returned with three boats completely filled with fish, claiming that they had never caught so much before. At night the stranger reappeared before Alfred 8 within a shining beam of light as St Cuthbert 1 and called him the chosen King of all Britain, bestowing many blessings upon him. Since then Alfred 8 considered St Cuthbert 1 his patron. Next morning Alfred 8 gathered five hundred of his best and dearest friends and told them about the vision, urging them to commit themselves to virtuous life. He also advised his son Edward 2, who was there, to be faithful to God and St Cuthbert 1 and not to be afraid of his enemies. And then they rushed upon the Danes and overwhelmed them and took over the rule of Britain. [Source: Symeonof Durham.HistoriadeSanctoCuthberto 15-18]
